example when talking about the vacations, you might say, â€œSpeaking of vacations, we had some great Caribbean food on our last vacation. Now you can talk about food or food-related topics (e.g., other ethnic foods, cooking shows, music heard in restaurants). Itâ€™s the give-and-take of post-topical elaboration that makes conversing so much fun.

The Art of Small Talk: How to Get the Conversation Rolling are obviously some people you just will not be able to talk to because they are absolute bores or they are angry or upset or some-thing, but I have found that that is only about 1 percent of the people, if even that. For the most part, if you persist in asking questions, you will be able to talk to anybody, anytime. There are three segments to this process: Ask questions. Find connections.

Once you have your plan, reduce it to an outline. You can put this on paper (as notes for yourself), or on slides (as bullet points), or in the notes section of your presentation software. Your outline needs just enough detail that you can remember what to say, but no more. An ideal outline consists of short phrases, rather than complete sentences (which will tempt you to read them aloud).
