Another definition, based on its operation, could be: A guided missile is one which is usually fired in a direction approximately towards the target and subsequently receives steering commands from the guidance system to improve its accuracy. A number of different classifications of guided missiles are possible.

Chapter 5 GUIDED MISSILES

Specifically, this chapter deals with basic flight principles, the principle of jet propulsion, and the various types of missile propulsion systems. Chapter 4 covers missile components such as SERVOMECHANISMS and GYROSCOPIES, and the various types of missile guidance systems.

design information peculiar to ballistic missile flight, i.e., information outside the scope of basic subsonic and supersonic aerodynamics which may be termed "conventional aerodynamics." Accordingly, this handbook treats the problems unique to ballistic flight, namely, high-speed, high temperature and high altitude effects.

GUIDED MISSILE: An unmanned vehicle moving about the earth's surface, whose trajectory or flight path is capable of being altered by a mechanism within the vehicle. GYRO, DIRECTIONAL: A gyroscopic instrument for indicating direction, containing a free gyroscope which holds its position in azimuth and thus indicates angular deviation from course.
